 Imagine that your class is going to put on a play for the school and has decided to do The Strikers Have a New Goalie. But first, the story has to be turned into a play. The story will be divided into two acts: Act I will include chapters 1–5 (scenes 1–5), and Act II will include chapters 6–9 (scenes 1–4). Each chapter will be a scene in the play. Write a script for your assigned scene. Your script should have at least ten lines of dialogue, either taken directly from the text or created for the play. You should include at least five stage directions in the script. Remember to include the following information in your script: the title of the play, the act and scene, and a description of the setting. Remember to format your script correctly. If there is time, you will compare your scene with those of your classmates and combine them to make a completed play.

Predicto Gets a Clue!

DAY 1

Team Talk

1. Why did their teacher suggest that Adam, Elinor, Amy, and Daniel read the brochures about the USS Constellation Museum and the Maryland Science Center?
2. Daniel said that reading informational texts can be hard. What is an informational text? Why do you think Daniel and other students find it hard to read informational texts?
3. Predicto’s predictions were just wild guesses. What could he have done to make his predictions more realistic?
4. It was lucky for the friends that Amy had some Predicting Strategy Cards. How do you think the strategy cards will help them make predictions? (Write-On)

Predicto’s Challenge

Greetings, Ladies and Gentlemen,

By listening to Adam and his friends, I’ve learned that I should be using clues in the text to make my predictions. I wish I had one of those Predicting Strategy Cards so I could remember what the clues are. Anyway, I looked at the table of contents for Outlaws of the Sea and predicted what I think the topic of the text is.

- Look over the table of contents for Outlaws of the Sea, and make a prediction about the topic too.
- Compare predictions and clues with your partners.
- Write your predictions and clues in your journals.

Yours truly,
The Incredible Predicto

DAY 2

Team Talk

1. What text features did Elinor use to predict that the brochure would be mostly about what visitors to the USS Constellation Museum will learn about the ship and sailors?
2. Elinor said that the more clues you look for and think about, the better your predictions will be. Do you agree with her? Why or why not? (Write-On)
3. How will Adam and Elinor find out if their predictions come true?
Predicto’s Challenge

Greetings, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Listening to Elinor and Adam helped me figure out how to use clues to predict what a text is mostly about. I think the topic of the text on page 24 is pirates. But what do you think we’ll learn about pirates?

• Using the clues, like the headings, illustrations, and captions, see if you can predict what the text will be mostly about—what you will learn about pirates.
• Compare predictions with your partners; then write the predictions and clues in your journals.

Good luck!
The Incredible Predicto

DAY 3

1. What clues did Amy use to predict that part 1 would be about what there is to see on each deck of the USS Constellation?

2. Why did Daniel say he predicted that part 1 would tell them what there is to do on the USS Constellation?

3. Did you confirm Amy’s or Daniel’s predictions? Share the notes you and your partner made during your discussion. (Write-On)

4. Amy made a mind movie of the USS Constellation. Do you have a mind movie of the ship based on what you’ve read about it? Describe your mind movie. How do mind movies help you understand what you’re reading?

Predicto’s Challenge

Greetings, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Finally, my luck is turning! I have a Predicting Strategy Card of my own! Outstanding! I used it right away to help me predict the main ideas of each part of the article on pirates. Why don’t you try that too?

• Look for clues.
• Make predictions about the main ideas of each part.
• Discuss your predictions and clues with your partners.
• Write your predictions and clues in your journal.
• Take turns reading each part to see if your predictions come true.
• Check off confirmed predictions.

Good luck!
The Incredible Predicto
DAY 4

Team Talk

1. Predicto is actually learning to use clues! What clues helped him to predict that Ahoy, Matey! would be about what the sailors did to relax?
2. Did Predicto’s prediction come true? Explain how you know.
3. Is it okay if a prediction doesn’t come true? Why do you think that? (Write-On)

Predicto’s Challenge

Greetings, Ladies and Gentlemen,

A customer at the fair paid me 25 cents to predict the main ideas of parts 1 and 2 of the article Sunken Treasures. Once again, it’s a nautical theme. But that’s the only hint I’m going to give you. Test your powers of prediction!

• Using the text features as clues, predict the main ideas of parts 1 and 2.
• Compare predictions and clues with your partners.
• Write the predictions and clues in your journals.
• Then take turns reading parts 1 and 2 to see if you can confirm your predictions.
• Check off confirmed predictions.

Good luck!
The Incredible Predicto

DAY 5

Team Talk

1. What do you think Amy and Daniel did to be good partners for each other?
2. What clues did Elinor use to predict that part 1 would be about uncovering the mystery of why dinosaurs disappeared?
3. Did Elinor confirm her prediction? Did she learn anything that she didn’t predict? What was it? (Write-On)
4. Did you learn something about dinosaurs that you didn’t predict? What was it?
Predicto’s Challenge

Greetings, Ladies and Gentlemen,
I just happen to know that there’s another exciting exhibit at the Maryland Science Center. It’s called the Birth of Aviation. What do you think that’s all about? Let’s predict!

- On your own, predict the main ideas of parts 1, 2, and 3 of the information on page 26.
- Discuss your predictions and clues with your partners.
- Write your predictions and clues in your journals.
- Take turns reading the paragraphs.
- Find the main ideas. Do they confirm your predictions? Why or why not?

Wishing I had a partner to work with, I remain,
The Incredible Predicto

DAY 6

Team Talk

1. Daniel said that it was hard to predict what Your Body: The Inside Story was about because there weren’t many clues. What clues did he use to come up with the prediction that it’s about how to stay healthy?

2. How did you use your background knowledge to predict what Your Body: The Inside Story was about? (Write-On)

3. Based on what you read in both brochures, would you have voted to go to the USS Constellation Museum or the Maryland Science Center? What did you learn that made you choose this destination? Is this the place you would have chosen before reading the brochures? Why or why not?

Predicto’s Challenge

Greetings, Ladies and Gentlemen,

Now that I know how to use clues, my powers of prediction have expanded so much that my turban no longer fits on my head. I’d like to test my powers out on you.

I’ve discovered yet another amazing exhibit at the Maryland Science Center. There’s some information about it on page 27 in your copy of A Collection of Readings. I’ve predicted what I think are the main ideas of each part.

I’d like you to find out if my predictions come true!

- With your partners, take turns reading parts 1, 2, and 3.
- Find the main ideas.
- Compare the main ideas to my predictions.
- Write down which of my predictions came true, which didn’t, and why.

With fingers crossed,
The Incredible Predicto
DAY 7

1. What did you predict before reading the text? What clues helped you make this prediction? (Write-On)

2. Was your prediction confirmed? Give two details from the story that support your answer.

3. Should people fear great white sharks? Why or why not?

4. The word efficient means—
   a. unproductive.
   b. useless.
   c. effective.
   d. hopeless.

Comprehension Questions

1. What prediction can you make about the passage before reading? What clues helped you make this prediction?

2. What is the intent of the author?
   a. to compare the Special Olympics with the Olympic games
   b. to tell how Eunice Kennedy Shriver helped the disabled
   c. to persuade readers to volunteer with the Special Olympics
   d. to explain how the government made laws for the disabled
   How do you know?

Helping to Succeed: Eunice Kennedy Shriver

Eunice wanted disabled people to be welcomed in their communities. People often ignored them. There were no laws that protected them from abuse. She wanted to change this. She created Camp Shriver in Chicago. Eunice knew that exercise could change their lives.

In 1967, she learned about a plan for a one-day track meet for disabled children in Chicago. Eunice liked the idea but wanted it to be bigger. She invited children from all over the country. About 1,000 children came. She named the games the Special Olympics. Now, the Special Olympics are held all over the world. Athletes from more than 180 countries compete in them.

To bring awareness to a group of people who were often ignored by society, Eunice started Camp Shriver. She wanted disabled children to learn to play sports and to exercise. The Special Olympics helped people to be welcomed in their communities. People could share their stories. Eunice worked hard to make these games possible.

Eunice Kennedy Shriver made these games possible. She knew that children who did not have this chance should have a chance. The work of Eunice Kennedy Shriver inspired others. These athletes didn’t always have this chance. The Special Olympics help bring awareness to a group of people who were often ignored by society.

Every two years, sporting events are held for people with intellectual disabilities. The events are the Special Olympics World Summer and Winter Games. The disabled athletes compete in many of the same events as other Olympic athletes. But these athletes didn’t always have this chance. The work of Eunice Kennedy Shriver inspired others. These athletes didn’t always have this chance.

Helping to Succeed: Eunice Kennedy Shriver

Eunice wanted disabled people to be welcomed in their communities. People often ignored them. There were no laws that protected them from abuse. She wanted to change this. She created Camp Shriver in Chicago. Eunice knew that exercise could change their lives.

In 1967, she learned about a plan for a one-day track meet for disabled children in Chicago. Eunice liked the idea but wanted it to be bigger. She invited children from all over the country. About 1,000 children came. She named the games the Special Olympics. Now, the Special Olympics are held all over the world. Athletes from more than 180 countries attend the games.

Eunice did more than create a sporting event for the disabled. The Special Olympics have made many countries, even the United States, change their laws for education and care of the disabled. Shriver helped bring awareness to a group of people who were often ignored by society.

   The next season came around. My knee had completely healed, and I had been working out all winter and spring. It was time to sign up for the Summer Soccer Strikers again. Julie went with me. She was just about to put my name in the slot that read "Goalkeeper" when I looked over at her. I remembered how well she had done in those last two games and how much fun she had.

   "I'm going to put my name in the slot," she said.

   "What about me?" I asked.

   "I'm fine," she said.

   "But you were the best goal to date," I protested.

   "I know," she said. "But I want to do something different this year."
